Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement filed September 4, 2003 fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(3) because it does not include a concise explanation of the relevance, as it is presently understood by the individual designated in 37 CFR 1.56(c) most knowledgeable about the content of the information, of each patent listed that is not in the English language. It has been placed in the application file, but the information referred to therein has not been considered. Specifically, reference "AC" which is not in English, has no associated explanation of relevance in the instant application or in the parent case, US Patent Application 2003/0006384 A1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 4 recites a method for eliminating electromagnetic waves comprising the use of the device of claim 1. Such a recitation does not set forth positive method steps for eliminating electromagnetic waves. Note MPEP 2173.05(q). The most relevant portion pertaining to claim 4 is cited below.

Attempts to claim a process without setting forth any steps involved in the process generally raises an issue of indefiniteness under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph. For example, a claim which read: "A process for using monoclonal antibodies of claim 4 to isolate and purify human fibroblast interferon." was held to be indefinite because it merely recites a use without any active, positive steps delimiting how this use is actually practiced. Ex parte Erlich, 3 USPQ2d 1011 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1986)

Double Patenting

A rejection based on double patenting of the "same invention" type finds its support in the language of 35 U.S.C. 101 which states that "whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process ... may obtain a patent therefor ..." (Emphasis added). Thus, the term "same invention," in this context, means an invention drawn to identical subject matter. See Miller v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 151 U.S. 186 (1894); In re Ockert, 245 F.2d 467, 114 USPQ 330 (CCPA 1957); and In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970).

A statutory type (35 U.S.C. 101) double patenting rejection can be overcome by canceling or amending the conflicting claims so they are no longer coextensive in scope. The filing of a terminal disclaimer cannot overcome a double patenting rejection based upon 35 U.S.C. 101.

Claims 3 objected to under 37 CFR 1.75 as being a substantial duplicate of claim 2. When two claims in an application are duplicates or else are so close in content that they both cover the same thing, despite a slight difference in wording, it is proper after allowing one claim to object to the other as being a substantial duplicate of the allowed claim. See MPEP § 706.03(k). In the instant case, Claims 2 and 3 have overlapping ranges where claim 2 recites a diameter of a base of a coil being at least 1.2 times that of an upper portion of the coil and claim 3 recites a diameter of a base being 1.5 to 3 times that of an upper portion of the coil. The range of claim 2 therefore encompasses the range of claim 3.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-2 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The most relevant prior art to the instant application, relied upon for the Non-Final rejection of the parent case, is that of Suckow (USPN 2,969,484). The instant application requires in claim 1 that a coil be held on a non-conductive supporting means. While Suckow does teach a supporting means (Item 11 in Fig. 1), it is disclosed that this based is composed of steel. Steel is a conductive material. There is no teaching in Suckow to suggest mounting such a structure on an insulating material.

Further, the prior art of Jordovic (WO 98/06453) teaches a coiled microwave absorbing means, but similarly fails to teach or suggest mounting a tapered coil having a discharge means on a non-conductive support. The embodiment shown in Fig. 5 of Jordovic does comprise a wire bundle wrapped around plastic core, but this embodiment lacks the critical elements of a discharge means, a tapered coil, and a non-conductive support securing the coil at the base of the coil.

Claim 2 is allowable by virtue of its dependency on claim 1.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

The examiner further cites USPN 4,928, 201 to Wright et al. which discloses a coiled wire mounted to a base.
